SENATOR DANIEL SPOKE IN GREENE

A Heart-to-Heart, Earnest Talk With the Democrats There.

A REPUBLICAN MEETING ALSO

State Senator Noel Addressed a Large Audience On Court Green.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) STANDARDSVILLE, VA., October 16. A large crowd gathered at Standards. ville to-day. It was the regular gession of court, but the attendance was largely increased by the fact that political speaking had been advertised by both the Democrats and Republicans.

From the mountain precincts on the western came a big Republican contingent, while the Democrats came in force from the eastern part of the Senator John W. Daniel arrived abo 11 o'clock, and when he arose in the courthouse to speak two hours later, it was filled to its fullest capacity, ladies occupying the galleries.

Shortly after the senator opened, Mr. John C. Noel began an address on the outside, where a big crowd of Republicans rapidly gathered. Cheers came from cans rapidly gathered. Cheers came from the Justy throats from the outside, and were as often answered by the Democrats from the inside. The number was about equally divided, few Republicans staying to hear Senator Daniel, while only now and then a Democrat could be seen on the outer edge of the Republicans. Daniel On Lewis.

Senator Daniel spoke about two and a half hours, discussing the principles of Democracy. There was little of the abusive in it, most of it being forcibly blear and educational in its character. He remarked rather sarcastically that the Benybliques were beesting of the feet. the Republicans were boasting of the fact that they were at last running a gentleman for office,

"I was at school with Lunsford Lowis," said he, "and have nothing to say against him, but other gentlemen have run for Governor of Virginia, and have failed of election, and this will be another case." He devoted some time to the public school system, and denied the claim of the Republican party that the system had been given to the State by them through the Underwood Convention. He told how the intention of the convention had failed and traced the school history from its birthplace in the Demogratic party to its present prosperity in public instruction.

tion.

On the negro question, he said the Republicans spoke with two tongues; with one they denounced the Democrats for disfranchising the negroes; with the other they claim to be the Lily Whites.

"We have put a clean shirt on the Republicans." he said, "but I am afraid they did not take a bath before we put it on."

On Party Graft.

On Party Graft.

The Benator struck a harsher note when he reached the question of party graft. The lid was closed down on the poetoffice scandals, said he, in the Benato, and the investigation stopped. Men love darkness rather than light. Why? Because their deeds are evil. Mr. Rooseveit's policy of tariff revision was commended, and this far Benator Daniel said he agreed with the President. Bome of his party is following him, but where are the others going?

His closing was meet impressive. Leaning forward and looking with searching eyes into the souls of the Democrate before him, the lines of deep carnestness traced upon his features, in tones subdued to heart to heart confidence, he exhorted the Democrats of Greene to be firm.

HAYTI AND THE WEST INDIES.

By Major Wm. E. Doyle-Article No. 4.

At Kingston I found Captain Charles Williams, an old Maine skipper, who had sailed in these waters. He was authorized, with me, to purchase a steamer to use as a sunbont, the Solomon. Service and Egalite, "to purchase a steamer to use as a sunbont, the Solomon. Service and the serv

Tropic sailed away to Port Antonio. The President of Hayti, Emile Solomon, Issued a proclamation, declared martial law throughout the republic, and sent down the stemers, Egalite and Liberte to attack Mirnoanes. April 5th. General Paul Emile was placed in command of the government troops and orders given to execute all insurgents captured."

At Kingston, whon A arrived with the Latona, I transferred the 400 Sprinsfield rifles, 500,000 rounds of ammunition, 500 machetes and two pieces of artillery, with equipments and ammunition, to the schooner Fergus, whose capitaln laughed as he shipped the "groceries" and "agricultural implements," remarking that he had handled such goods before. Then with Hudson and sixty colored revolutionists under Genéral Epanuindos Desroches, we sailed for Miraoanes, where the revolutionary President Bayer Bazelais had arrived before we reached there, And now we had, with the arrivals from heighboring towns, many of whom brought arms, over 1,200 well armed men and a four-gun battery, and we armed the surplus men with machetes. and a four-gun battery, and we armed the surplus men with machetes.

The macheto is very necessary in the tropics for cleaning a route thrugh forests, where the vines obscure a trail in a grove, and is much on the style of a corn knife with longer and wider blade, and is a dangerous-weapon at close quarters by the control of the and is a dangerous-weapon at close quar-ters, bit of not much force in a fight when firearms are used, except to frighten by a charge.

Large quantities of blue denim uni-forms had been brought on the "Latoria" and "Fergus" for the men, and a quan-tity of cloth also. Hudson and myself as well as several others had our uni-forms made in Kingston, where we also forms made in Kingston, where we also obtained belts, sabres and pistols, and where I also obtained a pair of field glasses, pocket compass and surveying materials.

glasses, pocket compass and surveying materials.

Buzalaris had brought about two tons of proclamations, denouncing the black tyrant, Solomon, and calling on the people to rise and overthrow him, and these were sent to Jaemel, Jeremic, Aquin, Aux. Cayes, Logane and other towns, some of them even reaching Port au Prince, where they were read in the streets and created great excitement. Scouting parties were sent out and some skirmishing took place, in which a number of prisoners were taken, who were held for exchange, Buzalaris at the same time notifying Solomon that he intended to treat prisoners humanely, but would retallate for all outrages. It is a custom in this island, in all revolutions, to take no prisoners; it saves the trouble of feeding them. Recruits kept coming in and regiments and battallons were formed, and we threw up a small carthwork, in which we mounted the four guns, so that when the Solomon steamer Liberto, and Egalite came down and commenced shelling us, we were ready for her if she came close enough in, but after firing a few shots she withdrew. Provisions were plentiful, being mostly brought up from points on the bay in goletas, these being a sort of a mud secow with a sail, in which nearly all the coasting trade is done. The principal ration of a Haytien soldier is sugar cane. He cuts it up into pleces about a foot long and ties them with a cord or vine and the bundle is slung over his shoulder on the march. The commissury men gather themselves to the men, four or five canes to a man, and on this they keep hearty and strong, and this leads me to believe that most of the yellow fever trouble is caused by cutting to heavy food in a tropical climate. We know that the mosquito does not engender the disease, all it could do would be to spread it after there were established cases. But I contend that the yellow fever, or yomit, as the Spaniards call it, is only a virulent billous fever. The natives very rarely have it, but the foreigner, who demands in the tropics the same greasy food that he Buzalaris had brought about two tons washed. The rosuit is a lithinocous stance of which the bread is made after it is pounded up, and it is very palatable.

So in the canal zone it will be found that the diet is the main thing to prevent yellow fever, and next the sanitary conditions. There is no such thing as sewerage in any Spanish-American city except Havana and Sanitago since being under United States supervision. The Spaniards always built on a side hill, where in the rainy season all the accumulated filth would be spread out over the city and washed down into the harbor. Then when the hot spell came on the omanations were horrible, and the Dago wrapped a shawl about his head and said he had to protect himself from the dangerous dew.

I was in a schooner on a trip from Omoa, Honduras, the captain of which was a gruff old philosopher of the Baltimore school. One of the sailors gave indications of having an attack of yellow fever, and when it was reported to the ancient mariner he grunted: "Til soon fix him." I asked him what he was going to do, and he snorted; "Watch an ye'll see." He then had a sailor beat up a quantity of charcoal very fine, with which he filled a pint and a half (long-necked) whiskey bottle over half full, filling it out with water. He then icok the sick man, and after a good deal of shaking of the beattle and gagging and choking by the man, succeeded in getting about a pint of puiverized charcoal in him. He repeated this operation in about a half after brought out a huge bottle of castor oil and made the sick man take over a pint. "That'il do his business, he' grunted, and I though it surely would. Then the ancient looked at me in a paironizing way and remarked: "Ye see the philosophy in this Charcoal, me boy, is the greatest absorbont of noids there is. Now that foller's stomach is full o' acid. The bile has been pourn' out since he got billous, an' as it can't git away, it regurgitates, as ole Doc. Westar says, into the stomach. But the charcoal now absorbs it, and pretty soon tile castor oil will work it all out, and h and protty soon the castor oil will work it all out, and he will be as good as ever," and sure enough the sallor got well, at which the ancient mariner assured me that he never lost a patient, and his remedy is not yet caveated.

THE HANCOCK CASE.

Investigation of Alleged Murder Proves a Lively One.

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, October 16.-The decigion of Coroner Carr, of Hyattsville, Md., to conduct bohlnd closed doors the investigation into the death of Emma Smallwood, for which Winfield Scott Hancock, nephew of General Winfield Scott Huncock, was arrested on a charge of murder, caused a lively tilt between State's Attorney Magnuder and Robert T. Wells, defendant's counsel, and a listic encounter between Attorney Wells and a spectator, in which the father, anyor Charles A. Wells, particiated to-day, added interest to the case.

Some excitement was created when the jury assembled, by a man attempting to prevent Attorney Wells from entering the room. The attorney dealt him a blow in the face which brought blood. The man applied an epithet to the attorney, which was overheard by Mayor Wells, the attorney's father, who inflicted further punishment on the man, who finally was led away.

A warrant for the arrest of Mrs.

Amanda Mackall, the defondant's sister, was prepared, but was not served, as the constable refused to swear to it, taking the ground that he did not hear the evidence upon which it was ordered.

NORWAY AND SWEDEN ARE NOW SEPARATE COUNTRIES

(By Associated Press.) STOCKHOLM, SWEDEN, October 16. The union between Norway and Sweden existing since 1814, has been dissolved, both houses of the Riksdag having passed the government bill repealing the act of union and recognizing Norway "as a State separate from the union with Sweden."

The lower house adopted the bill without debate, but two or three members of the Senate excessed the opinion that the dissolution was an irrepable misfor-tune, and that the time would come when Norway would perceive the benefits of the union.

Both houses subsequently passed the new flag law.

ANOTHER ANAESTHETIC. Said to Possess Good Qualities of Cocaine Minus the Bad.

It is stated that the editor of a medical periodical published in Germany. C. Imgens, in conjunction with Dr. Frans Hoffman, has succeeded in producing a substance which possesses all the qualities of cocaine in causing insensibility to pain, and at the same time has none of the injurious effects of that remedical agent. This new substance has been called by them "alypin." After numerous experiments the two investigators have been able to establish the fact that alypin is a noutral reagent easily solution of the produced by the generally known at the place of application; a so-called local annasthetic in contrast to the offect produced by the generally known annosthetics, which cause entire loss of consciousness and are in the real sense of the term narcotics. These experiments have further shown that appin, while possessing strength equal to cocaine in its effect, is at the same time to be preferred to the latter, because it is less poisonous, produces no enlargement of the pupils, can be used agreeably to and without disturbance of the patient's condition, and that no stricture of the vascular structure follows from its use. The importance of this discovery is at once evident, for the less the danger connected with the insensibility artificially produced, so much the better it is for the patient. Cocaine Minus the Bad.

Minerva's Wisdom. The following anecdote is being told of Missionen Gould: Miss Gould, who is noted for her it, recently entertained at luncheon a party fittle girls from some charitable institution; fiterwards. Miss Gould showed the children bout her house, pointing out some of its increasing contents.

Afterwards, Miss Gould showed the children about her house, pointing out some of its interesting contents.

"This," she said, stopping before a bronze in the hall, "is a statue of Minerva."

"Was she married?" asked a little girl,

"Oh no, my dear," replied Miss Gould; "you know Minerya was Goddess of Wisdom."—
